30 OCTOBER 2015

Dear Zuri Group Team,

I would like to request consideration for the Web Developer position at Zuri Group. My love of clean and beautiful design, strong code and innovative challenges will hopefully be to our mutual benefit.

My experience with design and code began in 1995 when I first started teaching myself Photoshop and HTML. I'd design websites, build overclocked computers from scratch, go to computer fairs, game with a bunch of nerdy guys and dive into all the latest web developments. I earned a Bachelor's degree at the University of California, Santa Barbara in Computer Graphics and Design. Following that I worked in various positions in my field. I strived to keep up to date on the latest trends and technology through Adult Ed classes, tutorials, blogs, tech websites, Adobe lessons and newsfeeds. When I come upon an interesting skill or technique that I don't know, I learn it.

My most recent job was for a startup company in Bend, Oregon, Smartwaiver. I played an integral part of building the product from pre-day-one, writing the frontend code and design for the product, developing landing pages, creating images, data analysis, A/B testing and debugging, and using data to drive the company's technology. I had the privilege of seeing the company through profitability. My five years also included fine-tooth combing applications (website, apps and plugins), working on the WordPress plugin and customer support tutorials, designing using the full Adobe suite of software, troubleshooting, securing a major partnership with FareHarbor, and really, anything thrown my way.

My long term goals consist of a job which offers challenges, company-wide progression, and surrounding myself with good people. Beyond this, I bring an upbeat personality, adventurous spirit and a natural cheerfulness.

Thanks very much for your attention. I'm available to chat anytime.

Sincerely,

Chelsea Town
