Yahoo Style Guide

DerbyWars Style Guide

Grid

Summary

This grid system doesn't work on the concept of "columns," but on the concept of proportions. With RWD, fluidity and device uncertainty, it makes little sense to build grid systems to finite and absolute numbers like "twelve columns" – thus, think of fluid grids in terms of fractions; one half, two thirds, five eighths and so on.

The basic components are grid rows and grid units.

- Grid Row: `class="g"`, contains one or more "units," `class="g-u-#-#"`.
- Grid units describes how it should be sized (e.g. `g-u-1-2` takes up half the grid, `g-u-1-3` takes up one-third, and so on).

Define a grid row, one or more units inside it, and specify widths for them. Then stack and nest as required.

Grid units are styled as inline-block (as opposed to float). The chief benefit this gives us is ability to have multiple rows of grid units, especially useful for Responsive Grids.

Gutters are included by default, 40px; alternately removed with `class="g g-no-gutter"`.

Toggle Gutters

An alternate gutter width of 50px is available with `class="g g-alt"`.
